

HSBC Global Investment Funds

GLOBAL EMERGING MARKETS MULTI-ASSET INCOME

Monthly report 31 March 2024 | Share class AM2

Investment objective

The Fund aims to provide income and moderate capital growth by investing in a range of assets, including bonds, shares, money-market securities, other assets and cash in emerging markets.

Investment strategy

The Fund is actively managed and is not constrained by a benchmark. In normal market conditions, at least 90% of the Fund's exposure is to assets that are based or issued in emerging markets. The Fund invests in investment grade, non-investment grade and unrated bonds issued or guaranteed by governments, government-related, supranational entities and companies based in or carry out the larger part of their business activities in emerging markets; and to shares issued by companies of any size. The Fund may invest up to 20% in Chinese bonds through the China Interbank Bond Market and up to 10% in non-investment grade bonds issued by any single sovereign issuer. The Fund may invest up to 90% in other funds. It can also invest up to 10% in convertible bonds and up to 10% in contingent convertible securities. The Fund may invest up to 30% in China A and China B-shares. For China A-shares, up to 15% through the Stock Connect exchanges, and up to 15% in CAAPs. The Fund's primary currency exposure is to emerging market currencies (exposure will not be less than 50%). See the Prospectus for a full description of the investment objectives and derivative usage.

Main risks

- The Fund's unit value can go up as well as down, and any capital invested in the Fund may be at risk.
- The Fund invests in bonds whose value generally falls when interest rates rise. This risk is generally greater the longer the maturity of a bond investment and the higher its credit quality. The issuers of certain bonds, could become unwilling or unable to make payments on their bonds and default. Bonds that are in default may become hard to sell or worthless. The value of investible securities can change over time due to a wide variety of factors, including but not limited to: political and economic news, government policy, changes in demographics, cultures and populations, natural or human-caused disasters etc.
- The Fund may invest in Emerging Markets, these markets are less established, and often more volatile, than developed markets and involve higher risks, particularly market, liquidity and currency risks.

Monthly performance commentary

Market Review

Across equities, emerging markets underperformed developed markets in March. This was driven by weak investor confidence in a full rebound of the Chinese economy. Despite signs of recovery in exports and industrial production, retail sales are still weak, while in property market sales activity remains low. Within Asia, the equity markets with most exposure to the Technology sector, such as Taiwan and South Korea, continued to rally, benefitting from semiconductor chip stocks linked to Artificial Intelligence driven demand.

Within fixed income, emerging markets debt in local currency was flat over the month, driven by a stronger US Dollar, while emerging market debt in hard currency posted positive returns. Asia High Yield bonds also rallied over the period.

The US dollar rallied over the month, driven by upward revision of US growth rate in the last quarter of 2023 and some increase in support for interest rate cuts from major central banks. Gold rallied to all-time highs, driven by the prospect for rate cuts. Oil pushed higher, on elevated geopolitical tensions.

Portfolio performance

The portfolio delivered positive absolute returns in March, driven by the performance across both emerging markets equities and parts of the EMD market.

The portfolio is actively positioned against a long term asset allocation. Over the period, our tilt away from emerging market debt in hard currency and the preference for Brazil and Indian equity detracted. Conversely, our tilt towards Asia High Yield added value.

Investment Team Views and Portfolio Positioning

The outlook for global emerging markets is mixed. Benign inflation trends have already prompted central banks to either pause hikes or engage in rate cuts, while growth remains relatively supportive. Pockets of strength exist across Latin America and Asia, despite China's slower economic recovery. Rollouts of targeted fiscal policy support in China continue, albeit more localized and very targeted for now.

As the global growth picture has improved, we are now neutrally positioned in equity. We continue to prefer local over hard currency emerging market debt given the appealing carry and positive outlook on emerging market FX. We also maintain a tilt to Asia High Yield, given the cheap valuations and attractive yield levels in this asset class.

We continue to hold our position in Brazil versus emerging market equity, given the country's positive momentum, strong macroeconomic backdrop and attractive fundamentals.

We also hold a preference for Indian equity and government bonds. India remains one of the fastest growing economies globally, is making steady productivity improvements, has high foreign direct investments, and favourable demographics.

Risk Disclosure

- Derivatives may be used by the Fund, and these can behave unexpectedly. The pricing and volatility of many derivatives may diverge from strictly reflecting the pricing or volatility of their underlying reference(s), instrument or asset.
- Investment Leverage occurs when the economic exposure is greater than the amount invested, such as when derivatives are used. A Fund that employs leverage may experience greater gains and/or losses due to the amplification effect from a movement in the price of the reference source.
- Where overseas investments are held the rate of currency exchange may cause the value of such investments to go down as well as up.
- Investment involves risk. Past performance figures shown are not indicative of future performance. Investors should read the prospectus (including the risk warnings) and the product highlights sheets, before investing. Daily price change percentage is based on bid-bid price.

Different classes may have different performances, dividend yields and expense ratios. For hedged classes, the effects of hedging will be reflected in the net asset values of such classes. Expenses arising from hedging transactions may be significant and will be borne by the relevant hedged classes. Hedged class performs the required hedging on a best efforts basis.

Performance is annualised when calculation period is over one year. Past performance does not predict future returns. Fund return: NAV-to-NAV basis. For comparison with benchmark.

*Share class denoted with "(Net)" refers to fund return net of maximum initial charge (SG) on a single pricing (NAV) basis. No redemption charge is levied.

The above table cites the last dividend paid within the last 12 months only.

Dividend is not guaranteed and may be paid out of capital, which will result in capital erosion and reduction in net asset value. A positive distribution yield does not imply a positive return. Past distribution yields and payments do not represent future distribution yields and payments. Historical payments may comprise of distributed income, capital, or both.

The calculation method of annualised yield prior to August 2019 is the simple yield calculation: (dividend amount / NAV per share or units as of ex-dividend date) x n; The calculation method of annualised yield from August 2019 is the compound yield calculation: $((1 + (\text{dividend amount} / \text{ex-dividend NAV}))^n) - 1$, n depends on the distributing frequency. Annually distribution is 1; semi-annually distribution is 2; quarterly distribution is 4; monthly distribution is 12.

The annualised dividend yield is calculated based on the dividend distribution on the relevant date with dividend reinvested, and may be higher or lower than the actual annual dividend yield.

Investors and potential investors should refer to the details on dividend distributions of the Fund, which are available on HSBC Asset Management (Singapore) Limited website.
